

Julie-Anne's Story

Pretty, petite and going on forty years old, Julie-Anne had work she loved, wonderful friends, fantastic health, yet one thing was missing – love. Years of struggle, heartbreak and disappointments in relationships added to endless searching and personal growth work had left her confused and disillusioned. Yet throughout her pain, Julie-Anne intuitively felt that it was leading her somewhere and that one day she would teach women about love and relationships, although she had no idea how that would happen.

After an “epiphany” moment in the middle of the night in her native England, Julie-Anne decided she would do whatever it takes to experience the loving, fulfilling relationship for which she craved. Giving up her life, home and work in the UK and risking everything for love, her healing journey took her to America where she worked with love-mentors and lived and breathed the principles she now teaches. She became a love-coach herself and began developing her own work. In April 2009 she set a radical intention to meet her husband by the end of the year with not a hint of love on the horizon!

Facing many severe challenges and setbacks along the way and with her money and visa running out, Julie-Anne did not give up. She met her husband Gary in Los Angeles on December 23rd 2009 – just eight days before her intended deadline! They married within six months and now have the extraordinary relationship she always wanted. Her journey became her passion and now she helps women all over the world to attract and keep the relationship of their dreams.

Julie-Anne Shapiro

Phone: (001) 310 465 8612 (USA) or +44 7958 582226 (UK)

Email: julieanne@magnetizinglove.com

Website: www.magnetizinglove.com